

CALL FOR PROPOSALS!

667 Shotwell presents: NEXT...

a forum of proposals for ideas, works, and tactics for what is NEXT.

deadline for materials: December 1

opening: Saturday December 3: 6-8pm

Based on recent events and occupations of public space nationally, 667 Shotwell is announcing a call for proposals by Artists to contribute to a book of artworks, ideas, and tactics for actively framing what is to come NEXT... The NEXT... book will exist as a PDF & slideshow for distributing Artist's proposed actions / ideas for addressing the current national and international social and economic disparities in question. The goal of the NEXT... Platform is to share your ideas with other artists whom want to complicate, debate, or expand the possibilities of the Occupy political movement. 667Shotwell is encouraging artists to think of big and small ideas for works that interfere with existing systems, reframe the debate, and affect the social fabric.

667 Shotwell is looking for a range of proposals from local, national and international artists. Large or small, quiet or overt, these proposals could be enacted immediately, need funding, or may exist only as an idea. Each proposal will retain the artist's authorship but may also be presented as an open source proposal for others to utilize.

All proposals will be compiled into:

- a digital slideshow/presentation to be projected for the opening
- and a FREE downloadable PDF

Guidelines:

- Send submissions to: next@667shotwell.com
- * up to 5 proposals can be sent as separate emails

Please Include in email:

- Name/Group
- email
- website

Proposals:

- Proposal page 11" x 8.5" horizontal orientation
- 300 dpi & saved as jpeg
- 2.5 mb or less file size
- Either image and or text or combination thereof
- Include name &/or contact info on your Proposal page if you want it visible